INSIDER TIPS

-  Traffic can be wild. Avoid construction delays around the Zoo entrance by checking your traffic app before your visit.
-  Answer nature's call first. The Gorilla Trail is a long walk and there aren't any bathrooms or water fountains, so stop at the bathroom before heading on your journey.
-  Don't forget your walking shoes. On this adventure, you'll be walking 3-7 miles!
-  Curious critter? Zoo staff love sharing information about the animals and wildlife, so don't be afraid to ask questions.
-  Take the watering hole with you. Don't forget to bring a reusable water bottle!
-  No "knock, knock" jokes. We know the animals are exciting, but they might get scared or agitated if you tap or knock on their glass, so please refrain!
-  Food for thought. The animals are on a special diet, so please keep your snacks to yourself!
-  Keep up with the herd. Check out the "Today At the Zoo" board near the carousel to plan out the best day ever.
-  The Dallas Zoo is the first zoo and cultural center in Texas to be certified as a Sensory Inclusive Location by Kulture City. Sensory Inclusive backpacks are available for guests to borrow for free at the Information Booth, so be sure to stop by if anyone in your group needs one!
