NEW this year!

Project Holocene by artist Russell Ronat

Located inside the tent in our Conservation Corner area, at Picnic Ridge

This unique traveling art exhibit makes its debut at the Dallas Zoo in November, featuring 19 large scale paintings that highlight wildlife and conservation. Artist Russell Ronat's mixed media artwork is backlit, so the layers of ink and paint seem to add texture and depth to each image. The exhibit also includes a captivating projection video showing the creation of the okapi painting.

This collection showcases the animals at the heart of the Dallas Zoo's Protecting the Twelve program, and our dedication to 12 conservation priorities that benefit both animals and humans.
